Special Needs Programming Open House Spring 2018

Secondary School After School Program Survey

Transitions can be difficult at the best of times. Transitioning out of the school system can be very difficult if things are not put in place way ahead of time. Once students with special needs are finished school, not having the daily stimulation of school paired with either no or little options can be a very difficult transition.

We would like to pilot an after school program that will help with the transition to out of school process. Students will have the opportunity to experience programming and social interaction outside of the school setting. The eventual goal will be to build this program so there will be something familiar for participants to continue to attend, when they are actually done with the school system.

This will all need to be taken one step at a time, with the help of our partners, York support services network (YSSN), Children's Treatment network (CTN) and Local health integrated network (LHIN). We will be able to develop the program content to meet the needs of the participants as well as work to meet the individual physical needs.

The initial program will be based on the responses received from the attached survey, so that it can be geared to the immediate need.

Please answer the following questions in regards to participants who are interested in attending an afterschool program for secondary school students.
